ISSUE: OCTOBER 2022

Hey everyone,

We were pleased to see that lots of you took up our dental promotion in October, and we had a busy month full of dental procedures. Our Vet, Emily, has a keen interest in dental care, and we have a purpose-built dental room with state-of-the-art equipment and a dental x-ray machine. For more information on dentals please see our dental articles about dental disease in dogs and cats and how to brush your pet's teeth to maximise their dental health.

We have recently started a Coquet Vets TikTok page 'CoquetVets'. Check out our dental videos from dirty teeth to shiny whites (disclaimer - they contain blood). We also have some other veterinary videos on there from abscesses to lump removals.

We recently hit our 4,000 patients to be registered milestone, which is amazing! We have recently purchased all new equipment to set up our second theatre. We have currently been working with just one theatre, but due to us growing and getting busier, we have decided to make the step to use both theatres.

We are now getting into firework season, and if your pet gets anxious during this time, please remember that we are once again doing our firework consultation promotion. This is running from now until the end of New Year and includes a consultation with one of our vets for just £25. Some medications need to be given a few days before, so if you are anticipating some firework events in your area, do not leave it to the last minute or the effect will not be as good. Call us today on 01665 252 250 to make an appointment.

Halloween time is also just around the corner, so please make sure you keep your sweets - especially chocolate - away from your pets. As a reminder of the dangers of this for pets, see our previous case study article on chocolate poisoning in dogs.

Finally, we are also super excited to announce we are having our Christmas Fair again this year. It will be here on Saturday 10th December from 12.30pm to 4.30pm. We are already fully booked with stalls, so come along for a great afternoon. Dogs are allowed if on leads.
