ISSUE: OCTOBER 2023

Hi Everyone,

The dark nights have officially started - don't forget to put your clocks back on Saturday evening, ready for the clocks changing at 2am on Sunday 29th October. This also means that fireworks season is approaching, and as we know, it is no longer just the 5th of November when fireworks are set off. To help your pets cope during this time, we are offering a firework consultation with one of our vets for £25. If medication is needed to keep them calm and relaxed, most animals will need to have this medication in their system a few days before the fireworks start. Please call us to get your pet booked in, and do not leave it too late.

Our First Aid evening was another great success, and we had a great turn out despite the terrible weather. We had good feedback, with clients saying it was very informative. We will hopefully put another one on in the near future, so if you are interested, please send us an email.

We are getting excited about our Christmas Fair on Saturday 2nd December, which will take place from 12pm to 3pm. We have local businesses selling sweets, handmade gifts, paintings, candles, dog collars, and lots more.

Just a reminder to keep up to date with your pet's flea, tick and worm treatment. We have recently seen a few animals with fleas. This often happens when we start turning on our central heating. If your pets are not treated properly, they can very quickly get a heavy flea burden and become unwell, as well as establish part of their life cycle in your home. It is a myth that these creatures only survive in the summer. Due to new prescription laws, if you have not been in since the start of September, you will need to see a vet for a free consult to prescribe the flea, tick and worming treatment.

We are pleased to report that our dental promotion month, where we offered 10% off dental treatment, was very busy. We pride ourselves in gold standard dental care. We offer free dental checks for your pets, so don't hesitate to give us a call should you think your pet might have poor dental health. Signs of poor dental health include bad breath, rubbing of face, eating on one side, and salivation, amongst others. If in doubt, get them checked.

WHY WE ARE PASSIONATE ABOUT YOUR PET'S DENTAL HEALTH

Dental disease is one of the most common diseases that we see in small animal practice, but, unfortunately, this often goes undiagnosed and untreated. Here's how we can help you to look after your pet's dental health.

TEAM UPDATE: WELCOME LAUREN ROBERTSON

We are really pleased to welcome Lauren to our team at Coquet Vets. Lauren recently joined us as a Veterinary Receptionist.

Lauren grew up in Amble and has lived in Northumberland her whole life. She has a great passion for all animals, but has a soft spot for marine life and birds.

You will most likely find her in nature, at the beach, among the trees, or hiking in Northumberland with her 5 dogs, Saydee and Piper the bedlington terriers, Dodger the cockapoo, Jake the cocker spaniel and Maze the pointer x. She also owns a range of parrots and parakeets, including Cosmo her eclectus parrot who is like her feathery child.

HALLOWEEN SEASON REMINDER: CHOCOLATE POISONING IN PETS

With Halloween approaching, sweet treats and chocolate are more likely to be in our homes. Whilst us humans love to indulge in a bit of chocolate, chocolate is toxic to pets and could be fatal.

Here's a useful article from our news archives looking at the key signs of chocolate poisoning in pets and what you need to do if you think your pet has eaten chocolate.
