ISSUE 29 - SEPTEMBER 2022

Hey everyone,

We have had a busy month. We were pleased to see that our neutering promotion was a great success. Over the month of September, we have had dogs, cats and rabbits all booked in to be neutered. If you are not intending to breed from your pet, there are many benefits of neutering. For more information on this, get in touch with us, or revisit our previous article on 'Neutering- Should I or Shouldn't I?'

Our Cats Protection Event was also a huge hit. We had a large turnout; many vouchers were collected for the full cost of neutering and microchipping. The UK Government is introducing new cat laws on microchipping, so we highly recommend getting your cat microchipped - it is just £15 to do this. Find out more in our microchipping cats article that we posted earlier this year.

We also recently welcomed a new Student Veterinary Nurse to our Coquet Vets team. Emma started her Veterinary Nurse training at college in September. You may also see her adorable golden retriever at the practice on your next visit. Wolf is Emma and her partners first dog together. Find out more about Emma and Wolf in this month's newsletter.

We have had some interesting cases for foreign bodies. This included a large chunk of wood that was surgically removed from a spaniel's intestines and a small piece of glass that was found in a Staffordshire Bull Terrier. The owner had noticed a small lump on its side. When we opened the skin, we found the small piece of glass, which was then removed by the vet. You can see a video on this foreign body case in this month's newsletter.

Our next promotion is October, and we are offering 10% off dental procedures. If you are in our Coquet Pet Club, you will receive an extra 5% off (15% off all together). Do not miss out. Call us today on 01665 252 250 for a FREE dental check and to find out more about this dental promotion.

CASE STUDY: FOREIGN BODY - GLASS

We sometimes have some interesting cases for foreign bodies at Coquet Vets. This included finding a small piece of glass inside a Staffordshire Bull Terrier. The owner had noticed a small lump on its side. When we opened the skin, we found the small piece of glass, which was then removed by the vet. In this short video, you can see the dog in surgery and what we did to remove the glass. Click on the image to view this on our YouTube channel. We are pleased to report that the dog made a full recovery.

NEUTERING: SHOULD I, OR SHOULDN'T I?

For the month of September, we did an offer on neutering. Individually, people differ in their opinions on whether to neuter their pet or not. Revisit our previous article looking at the benefits of neutering for cats, dogs and rabbits and why we recommend it.

TEAM UPDATE: MEET EMMA

Meet Emma, who is our newest member of the Coquet Vet's team, and our other new member of the Coquet Vet's pet team, Wolf.

Emma Horner recently joined us and started her Veterinary Nurse training at college in September 2022. Emma completed her three year degree course in psychology at Northumbria University in 2021 with a 2.1.

Emma has always had an interest in animals. Starting from a young age, Emma has had an array of animals from guinea pigs, rabbits, gerbils and hamsters.

Wolf is Emma's 12-week-old Golden Retriever. He has a lot of confidence and sass. Emma cannot wait to take him to the beach for his first walk.
